DAIWC Youth Work 2011

The Project of the German-American-International-Womens-Club GAIWC of Kaiserslautern takes up the Kaiserslautern City Motto!

Integration derives from the Latin word Integratio meaning “to restore”, i.e., in plain language, a restoration in its entirety. It describes a dynamic, long and differentiated process of putting something together and to have it grow together. The opposite is disintegrations.

For 2011 the City of Kaiserslautern has chosen the motto Knowledge establish Integration and Internationality.

This topic invites the exchange of thoughts and discussions!

What do our young people think about that? What moves our young American neighbors in particular with regard to integration, especially since living together has changed so much following 11 September 2001?

What is integration? Where does integration start?

As the GAIWC' representative for youth programs I am inviting you to participate in our project which will be presented again at an official occasion.

Live integration yourself by becoming involved in this matter, and jointly with other young people, come up with and provide thoughts, quotations, pictures, and reports. Please send me your materials by 15 August 2011.

Last year in particular the Hohenfels High School (Ms. Mihanovoc) as well as the Sembach Middle School (Ms. Street) stood out by showing great commitment. This has prompted a lot of happiness.

Let us take on this topic and present again a promising project to the public!

Thank you in advance for your efforts and interest.

Yours Gudrun Westing
